Article. 1 Call for Competition

To further the education and improvement of junior scholars, the Università Commerciale "Luigi Bocconi" of Milan, announces a competition by exams and academic titles for the conferral, by means of an appropriate contract, according to art. 22 of Law 240/2010 and using the relative University Regulations emanated with the Rectoral Decree n° 129 of 10th June 2011, of 1 research grant with the following characteristics:

Duration: TWO YEARS

Sector: 13/A1 ECONOMICS

(Scientific Sector SECS-P/01 Economics)

In the Center IGIER – Innocenzo Gasparini Institute for Economic Research

Project PRIN 2017 – "Origins and Transmission of Financial Market Risks", CUP J44I20000230001

Professor of referral: prof. Nicola GENNAIOLI

Short description of the project: The project seeks to understand the nature of financial decision-making by individuals and institutions and how the latter contributes to market instability. The project consists of two main research strands. The first is more behavioral, and seeks to shed light on financial decisions by: i) measuring belief formation and ii) characterizing its possible departures from rationality. The second strand is institutions and market based: it purports to map individual decisions into distortions in asset prices, the allocation of credit, and the real economy.

The ideal profile for the position is that of an empirical researcher capable of dealing with both field and experimental data. An empirical financial economist with knowledge of behavioral finance, or a versatile empirical economist with knowledge of finance would constitute a good fit. More specifically, the required skillset comprises:

- Data collection and organization (which includes field, experimental, and survey data).
- Knowledge of standard econometric techniques (cross sectional and time series) and of the statistical software needed to implement them.

Article. 2 Admission Requirements

Time off for maternity or health reasons is not counted as part of the twelve years.
