PhD IN SOCIAL AND POLITICAL SCIENCE

Bocconi. Knowledge that matters.

The PhD in Social and Political Science is a 4-year PhD program completely taught in English. The program is designed for highly qualified and motivated students who wish to pursue a career in academia and research, and features a strong focus on high-level personal engagement: even before committing, selected applicants will interview with world-renowned faculty. Participants can count on close interaction with professors during courses and will work side by side with a distinguished mentor to carry out an intense period of research training. They are thus fully prepared and confident when they undertake their dissertation.

One of the program's most unique features is that it seeks common ground among disciplines often studied separately, employing multi-disciplinary training in theory and methods combined with an evidence-based approach. The program emphasizes the interconnections between social and political science, recognizing that political processes, social dynamics and economic factors necessarily interact. Students will choose among a range of elective courses to specialize in one or more of the core areas covered, but the program's structure ensures that all students will be exposed to the entire lifespan of a socio-political concept, from basic sociological research through the implementation and evaluation of public policy. Core areas include demography, economic history, international relations, gender, political science and political economy, public and global health, and public administration and public policy, and all are dealt with in the compulsory curriculum.
